Ayala Partush is a researcher at the Aaron Institute for Economic Policy and a teaching assistant for the Macro course at Reichman University. She graduated with a master's degree in economics in 2020 from Ben Gurion University. In her thesis work, Ayala explores the inflation in the last two decades.